March 11, 2013

This e-mail is provided by the Urban Indian Health Institute, a division of the Seattle Indian Health Board. It contains opportunities for staff development, grant announcements and other relevant public health information. We hope you find these resources useful. If you have any questions about the information below, or you are unable to open any of the links, please contact info@uihi.org. If this e-mail was forwarded to you, you may sign up here.

Training

Suicide Prevention Resource Center Online Training

The Suicide Prevention Resource Center launches an enhanced version of Locating and Understanding Data for Suicide Prevention. This one-hour online course introduces a number of readily-accessible online data sources that suicide prevention practitioners can use to help understand the suicide problem in their state or community. The course also explains some key concepts that will help practitioners select the sources and data that will be the most useful for informing their prevention activities.
More information about the Suicide Prevention Training can be found online.

Resources

CDC Sortable Stats 2.0

The updated Sortable Stats 2.0 site provides users with easy access to extensive public health data by state and enables comparison with other states and the nation. Sortable Stats is an interactive database with data on 31 behavioral risk factors and health indicators.

The Sortable Stats 2.0 resource can be accessed online on the CDC website.

Maternal and Child Health Library at Georgetown University New Knowledge Path

The Maternal and Child Health Library at Georgetown University presents a new knowledge path, Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health. The knowledge path directs readers to a selection of current, high-quality resources about preventing, identifying, and eliminating racial and ethnic disparities in health. Health professionals, program administrators, policymakers, and researchers can use the knowledge path to:

- Learn more about racial and ethnic health disparities, health equity, and removing barriers to care.
- Plan for program development.
- Locate training resources and information to answer specific questions.

More information about the Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Knowledge Path can be found on the Maternal and Child Health Library website.

HHS Office of Adolescent Health Pregnancy Assistance Fund and Resource Training Center

The HHS Office of Adolescent Health recently launched the Pregnancy Assistance Fund (PAF) Resource and Training Center. This new online resource for professionals serving pregnant and parenting teens provides training and technical assistance to service providers in the field.

Access the training materials and learn more about services and supports for pregnant and parenting teens online.

More reports, resources and other information can be found on the UIHI website, www.uihi.org

Urban Indian Health Institute
Seattle Indian Health Board
PO Box 3364
Seattle, Washington 98114
(206) 812-3030